4. That WONDERful Juju

Shayan “Ricky” Gupta, Grace Lao, Lora Zhou

Wonder — Shawn Mendes

With a return to in-person shows, I wanted this piece to be an homage to the legacy of the beginner contemp piece and one its founding choreographers: my day one and fellow Shawn Mendes fan - Juliette (I call her “Juju”) Wong. We wanted to capture the WONDERs of contemp, with choreography that intrigues and challenges our beginners (and not-so-beginners). I’m so thankful for Grace and Lora, my Bruise Crew 3.0, for helping me bring this piece to light. I... WONDER... what Juju would say if she saw this piece and the Bruise Crew legacy. -Ricky

CMU Raasta began with the vision of three people to bring a South Asian cultural phenomenon to Carnegie Mellon University. Since 2012, CMU Raasta has been committed to promoting Indian culture across campus by performing on and off campus at dance competitions throughout the nation. We are a team of 16 boys and girls who aspire to compete at the national championship - Raas All Stars - amongst the seven best teams across the nation. By exhibiting the talent and diversity of Carnegie Mellon students, we aim to spread the awareness of Gujarati traditions through the West Indian folk dance Garba-Raas.

7. 6 Inch Heels

Emily Zhang

6 Inch - Beyoncé

My heels piece is set to 6 Inch by Beyoncé, which explores how sexuality, which is often exploited and frowned upon for women, can translate into power— both in traditional measures like money & status and internal measures like confidence & self-expression. I’m aiming for big girlboss energy while simultaneously recognizing the vulnerability required to explore and be open.

16. City Never Sleeps

Michalina Lacheta, Greta Luo

Heat of the Day - Pat Metheny Group

As we hustle through the city, there is chasing, pulling, and chaos. This upbeat ballet piece is not set to traditional classical music, but to a fast jazz piece. Vibrant day and night colors fill the stage as we rush from one end of the stage to the other. Ending at a graceful and calm pace to finish off a busy and hectic day. We hope you enjoy our piece and don't get trapped in the hustle of the city!
